PRINCIPLES

Overview

The university is committed to preventing, responding to, and remedying the effects of bias, discrimination, harassment, and sexual and related misconduct. The university is also committed to providing prompt, fair, and impartial processes for all parties when such prohibited conduct is alleged. In tandem with this policy, to comply with applicable laws, and as a crucial part of its effort to prevent prohibited conduct, the university provides educational, preventative, and training programs for the Cornell community.

Process Privacy in Applicable Procedures Under this Policy

To ensure the integrity of this policy and its applicable procedures (see Procedures in this document), and to encourage parties and witnesses to participate in matters under this policy, the university recognizes that participants should be protected from unreasonable disclosure of their involvement in processes under any of the applicable procedures, and of any information they reveal during their participation. However, the university also recognizes that there are legal mandates that govern disclosure and afford participants certain rights to disclose information related to matters under this policy.

Accordingly, the university seeks to balance these competing interests by encouraging parties not to reveal any information they learn in the course of their participation in processes set forth in the applicable procedures, other than for the purpose of consulting with advisors and attorneys, and incidental to seeking support and advice from family, clergy, health professionals, and others playing a similar role. Parties are also encouraged to request that any advisors, attorneys, and support persons they consult keep information related to matters under this policy private.

Parties may choose whether to disclose or discuss with others the outcome of a complaint under this policy.

The university prohibits students from distributing documents obtained in the course of their participation in matters under this policy's Procedures for Resolution of Reports Against Students, including, but not limited to, the complaint, interview transcripts, and the investigative record and report, other than for the purpose of consulting with an advisor; incidental to seeking support and advice from family, clergy, health professionals, and others playing a similar role; or as part of a civil, criminal, or administrative legal proceeding.

As appropriate, in a given case, a university official, such as the Title IX coordinator, may issue an order restricting the parties from disclosing specific information. Members of the Cornell community who fail to follow an order of a university official may be found to have violated Cornell University's Campus Code of Conduct. Additionally, sharing private information in a manner that harms another individual may constitute retaliation prohibited under this policy. (Retaliation is defined in the applicable procedures and may result in disciplinary action.)

The university will provide other participants, such as witnesses and hearing and appeal panel members, with instructions about respecting and safeguarding private information. Such persons are obliged to comply with the university's rules regarding privacy.

POLICY 6.4

Prohibited Bias, Discrimination, Harassment, and Sexual and Related Misconduct

PRINCIPLES, continued

The university will take reasonable measures to protect the privacy of proceedings and records; however, the university cannot and does not guarantee that privacy will be maintained. Privacy does not mean that the university is constrained from divulging facts of proceedings in appropriate circumstances. Additionally, the university may publicly divulge details of an outcome if one of the parties discloses selective portions of the proceedings, or if the matter is involved in litigation.

Retaliation and Bad Faith Complaints

Local, state, and federal laws prohibit any form of retaliation against a person based on that person's participation in any matters under this policy or that person's opposition to protected-status discrimination or harassment. This policy also prohibits retaliation, as defined in the applicable procedures.

At the same time, an individual who believes that they are aggrieved because a complaint under this policy is malicious, knowingly false, or fundamentally frivolous, may invoke the Campus Code of Conduct or any applicable grievance procedure under this policy. A party who brings such a bad faith complaint may be found to have violated this policy's prohibition against retaliation.

PROCEDURES – ITHACA-BASED LOCATIONS AND CORNELL TECH

Introduction

There are several distinct procedures and other mechanisms for reporting, investigating, and resolving matters under this policy, with each process designed to correspond best with different types of conduct and the university’s different constituencies. (See the tables below.) In any given case, the applicable process depends upon both the conduct alleged and the respondent’s relationship with the university (student, faculty member, staff member, or third party).

◆Note: A person against whom a report or formal complaint of prohibited conduct has been made is designated as the “respondent.” A person who is the subject of such a report or initiates a formal complaint of prohibited conduct is designated as the “complainant.”

Choose the set of procedures below that corresponds to the conduct and respondent (a) for which you have a question or concern, would like to make a report, or initiate a formal complaint, or (b) against whom such a report or formal complaint has been made.

Procedures under this Policy (Arranged by Respondent)

Respondent	Prohibited Conduct	Procedure	Primary Contact
Student	Where the respondent is a student who is alleged to have committed dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, sexual and gender-based harassment, stalking, aiding prohibited conduct, attempting to commit prohibited conduct, retaliation, or violating an interim measure. REPORTING OPTIONS, SEEKING ADVICE, AND RESOURCES

Campus Reporting Options

The university encourages all members of the Cornell community who believe that they have experienced misconduct under this policy or become aware of alleged misconduct to report the incident immediately to the university through the appropriate reporting option listed in the tables in Procedures in this document.

Faculty and Staff Duty to Consult on Potential Sexual and Related Misconduct Involving Students

Cornell faculty and staff members, with the exception of important Confidential Resources for Support, discussed below, are required to consult with the Title IX coordinator or a deputy Title IX coordinator when they become aware of an alleged incident of sexual and related misconduct under this policy, such as dating violence, domestic violence, and stalking, that involves a student as either the complainant or respondent. Thus, in cases of alleged sexual and related misconduct involving students, faculty and staff members may not make anonymous reports. Faculty and staff members should be prepared to share the name, date, time, location, and description of the incident (if known) with the Title IX coordinator. Other than sharing such information with the Title IX coordinator, faculty and staff members will maintain an individual's privacy to the greatest extent possible.

When the Title IX coordinator or a deputy Title IX coordinator receives a report of prohibited sexual or related misconduct, they will contact the complainant, if known, or another individual reporting the prohibited conduct to offer support services, including assistance with academic, housing, transportation, employment, and other reasonable and available accommodations.¹ The individual will also be advised of the option to pursue a formal complaint, if such an option is available.

Supervisor Duty to Respond to Sexual and Related Misconduct in the Workplace

All Cornell supervisors and managers understand that sexual harassment is considered a form of employee misconduct. Cornell will enforce sanctions against individuals engaging in sexual harassment and against supervisory and managerial personnel who knowingly allow such behavior to continue. Accordingly, supervisory and managerial personnel must take all reasonable actions to report and respond immediately to any reports or observations of sexual harassment that may impact an employee's working environment. Reports of such conduct should be to the Title IX coordinator or a deputy Title IX coordinator.

Reporting to Law Enforcement

All individuals are urged to report immediately to law enforcement any conduct that may constitute a crime. An individual who believes they have experienced sexual or related misconduct prohibited under this policy may choose to report to the university and/or to law enforcement. An individual may pursue either, both, or neither of these options. Reports to the university and law enforcement may be made simultaneously. To make a report to law enforcement, contact one of the following:

- 911 (for emergencies)

¹In this policy, various university officials, such as the Title IX coordinator, are assigned responsibility for performing specific functions. Named officials are authorized to delegate responsibility to other appropriate university officials except where such delegation contravenes university policy. Additionally, named officials and their designees may consult with appropriate university officials, the Office of University Counsel, and subject-matter experts.

POLICY 6.4

Prohibited Bias, Discrimination, Harassment, and Sexual and Related Misconduct

Anonymous Reporting

With the exception of faculty and staff members who have a duty to consult, as discussed above, any individual who believes that they have experienced misconduct or becomes aware of alleged misconduct may make an anonymous report by using the online reporting form located at biasconcerns.cornell.edu.

Confidential Resources for Support

The university offers a number of confidential resources for individuals who are unsure whether to report misconduct or who seek counseling or other emotional support in addition to, or without, making a report to the university. For confidential support, one can seek assistance from the following:

- Cornell Health (medical and mental health providers, students only): (607) 255-5155
- The Faculty and Staff Assistance Program (FSAP) (mental health providers, faculty and staff only): (607) 255-2673

- The director of the LGBT Resource Center: (607) 254-4987, lgbtrc@cornell.edu
- The university ombudsman: (607) 255-4321

Conversations with the university's "confidential resources" are kept strictly confidential and, except in rare circumstances, will not be shared without explicit permission, as explained below:

- Cornell Health, FSAP, and CURW will not share with the university's Title IX Coordinator or any other university officials any information disclosed to them in the course of providing medical and/or mental health services or pastoral counseling. These conversations may also be legally privileged in the event of a court proceeding.

POLICY 6.4

- The victim advocate, directors of the WRC and LGBT Resource Center, and the ombudsman will not convey any personally identifiable information to the university Title IX coordinator or any other university officials; however, they may share with the university Title IX coordinator de-identified statistical or other information regarding prohibited conduct under this policy.
- The Advocacy Center is independent of Cornell and has no duty to consult with the university.

For confidential support resources other than those listed above, call the New York State Domestic and Sexual Violence hotline at (800) 942-6906.

Cornell's Sexual Harassment and Assault Response and Education (SHARE) website (share.cornell.edu) provides information to the Cornell community about sexual and related misconduct, and offers information about the SHARE partners who provide services, support, reporting options, education, and advocacy.

Even those university officials who cannot guarantee confidentiality will maintain a person's privacy to the greatest extent possible. When the information pertains to sexual or related misconduct, the information provided to a non-confidential resource will be relayed to the Title IX coordinator or deputy Title IX coordinator only as necessary for the Title IX coordinator to investigate and seek resolution.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR STUDENTS

Amnesty for Alcohol and Drug Use

◆Note: The Amnesty for Alcohol or Drug Use is set forth in New York State Educational Law Article 129-B.

The health and safety of every student at the university is of utmost importance. The university recognizes that students who have been drinking and/or using drugs (whether such use is voluntary or involuntary) at the time that prohibited conduct under these procedures occurs may be hesitant to report incidents due to fear of potential consequences for their own conduct. The university strongly encourages students to report such prohibited conduct. A student bystander or complainant acting in good faith who discloses any incident of prohibited conduct under these procedures to a Cornell official or to law enforcement shall not be subject to action under the university's Campus Code of Conduct for violation of alcohol and/or drug use occurring at or near the time of the commission of the prohibited conduct. While no disciplinary action will be taken, Cornell reserves the right to take steps necessary to address health and safety concerns for the individual and the community, as well as the right to report truthfully to licensing bodies.

New York State Student Bill of Rights

◆Note: The Student Bill of Rights is set forth in New York State Educational Law Article 129-B.

5. Be treated with dignity and to receive from the university courteous, fair, and respectful health care and counseling services, where available;
6. Be free from any suggestion that the reporting individual is at fault when these crimes and prohibited conduct are committed, or should have acted in a different manner to avoid such crimes or prohibited conduct;
7. Describe the incident to as few university representatives as practicable and not be required to repeat unnecessarily a description of the incident;
8. Be protected from retaliation by the university, any student, the respondent, and/or their friends, family and acquaintances within the jurisdiction of Cornell University;
